THERE, THEY SEEM TO BE CALMING DOWN NOW!
WONDER WHAT MADE THEM BREAK OUT IN THE FIRST PLACE?
THEY SEEMED TO BE TRAPPED WILLINGLY ENOUGH! MAD WITH WILDING LUST!
SHIFT! SHIFT! THERE'S SOME KIND OF SPELL IN THEIR BANISHING MATTER! SOMEBODY'S BEEN HERE AND TAMPERED WITH THINGS!
SOMEONE MUST BE TRYING TO SABOTAGE THE SEVEN WONDERS EXHIBIT!
BUT WHO WOULD DO SUCH A SHAMEFUL THING?
REX!
WE'VE HEARD STRONG ABOUT HIS OPERATIONS BEFORE BUT NO ONE'S EVER BEEN ABLE TO PROVE ANYTHING — AS FAR AS I KNOW I'VE NEVER SEEN HIM!
YOU'RE RIGHT!
BUT ONLY REX WOULD WANT TO WRECK A MOVEMENT FOR WORLD PEACE! HE MUST BELIEVE LETHS IDEA STANDS A CHANCE OF SUCCESS IF HE'S COMING OUT IN THE OPEN TO FIGHT IT! FROM NOW ON WE'VE GOT TO BE ON THE ALERT EVERY SINGLE MOMENT!
LATER, NEW OFFICIATORS ARRIVE FOR THE PROJECT.
THE POLAR REMOVE HAVE WITHDRAWN FROM THE 8TH PIT! THEY CLAIM THEY CAN'T COMPETE WITH THE OTHER ENTRIES!
HOH, HOH! THEY HURRY? DO THAT!
"THAT WILL UNBALANCE THE WHOLE PURPOSE OF THE EXHIBIT! EVERY DEMON MUST BE ENTERED TO SHOW DEMONS WORLD HARMONY! LET'S SEE WHAT WE CAN DO!"
SO—
WE HEAR THAT YOUNG WITHERAWN FROM THE EXHIBITION!
CANNOT BE HELPED! I COMMITTEE COULD NO THING OF ANYTHING WORTHY TO SHOW!

AFTER ALL, YOUR PAINTINGS ARE STILL UNDISCOVERED! WE HAVE NO REPUTATION! SCIENCE IS STILL BACKWARD! HOW CAN WE PRODUCE ONE OF SUCH WONDERS!
HM! I'VE AN IDEA

WE'LL NEED A LOT OF CANVAS AND OIL PAINTS AND ENOUGH WOOD FOR A BIG FRAME! THINK WE CAN GET IT TOGETHER IN A HURRY?
SURE!

SOON!
I CUT DOWN THESE TREES IN A FOREST!
AND I GOT THIS CANVAS FROM A SHIPS SUPPLY STORE!
AND I WOOD!

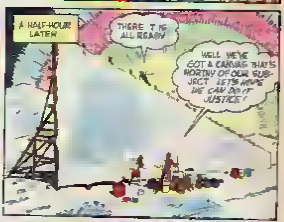
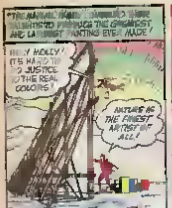
THE PAINTS ARE ALMOST READY! FIT THESE LOGS TOGETHER AND STRETCH THE CANVAS ON THEM!
OKAY!



A HALF-HOUR LATER!
THERE IT IS ALL READY!
WELL WE'VE GOT A CANVAS THAT'S WORTHY OF OUR SUBJECT! LET'S HOPE WE CAN DO IT JUSTICE!

BUT WHAT IS THERE TO PAINT IN THIS ICY WILDERNESS CAPTAIN MARVEL?
JUST THE MAGNIFICENT OVERPLAY THAT MOTHER NATURE PUTS ON FOR US!

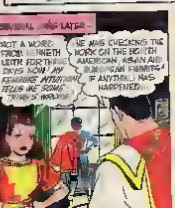
THE AURORA BOREALIS!



THE MARVEL FAMILY HAS BEEN ASSIGNED TO PHOTOGRAPH THE GRANDEST AND LARGEST PAINTING EVER MADE!
HOLY MOLY! IT'S HARD TO DO JUSTICE TO THE REAL COLORS!
NATURE IS THE FINEST ARTIST OF ALL!

BUT THIS IS A MEASURABLE FACSIMILE! HOWEVER, THIS PAINTING IS CONTRIBUTION TO THE SEVEN WONDERS!
A MASTERPIECE! THE POLAR BEARS WILL BE PROUD TO HAVE IT ON VIEW, HA!

MEANWHILE...
I REGRET TO REPORT, MASTER MIND, THAT THE MARVEL FAMILY SUCCEEDED IN THEIR ATTEMPT TO SABOTAGE THE PROJECT!
SO? WE MUST STRIVE HARDER! I WILL WORK OUT A PLAN THAT WILL FINISH THEM AND THEM TOO!



SEVERAL WEEKS LATER

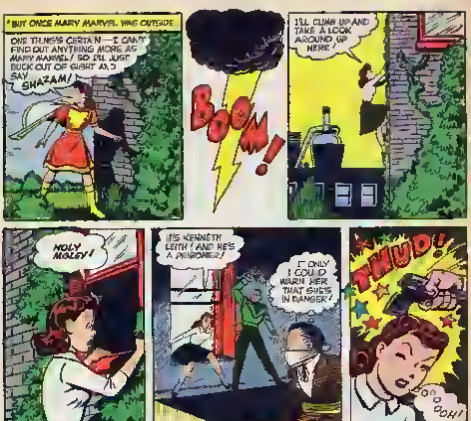
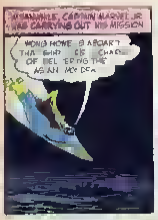
TIS BEEN A VERY INTERESTING VISIT BUT I MUST BE LEAVING NOW! I DO WANT TO FIND KENNETH LEITH!



BUT ONCE MARY MARVEL WAS OUTSIDE
ONE THING'S CERTAIN — I CAN'T FIND OUT ANYTHING MORE AS MARY MARVEL! SO I'LL JUST DUCK OUT OF SIGHT AND SAY SHAZAM!
BOOM!
I'LL CLIMB UP AND TAKE A LOOK AROUND UP HERE!
MOLY MOLEY!
ITS KENNETH LEITH! AND HE'S A PRISONER!
IF ONLY I COULD WARN HER THAT SHE'S IN DANGER!
PHUD!
OOH!
WHEN MARY BATSON RECOVERED CONSCIOUSNESS
WHERE AM I? OH!
MOLY MOLEY! THEY'RE AWARE THE OCCUPATION ATOMS WILL WITH BE BLASTED TO ATOMS BY A CHARGE OF BILLIONS OF NEUTRONS!
AND SO MARY BATSON AND KENNETH LEITH FACED THE MOST DESPERATE SITUATION OF THEIR LIVES!



MEANWHILE, CAPTAIN MARVEL JR. IS ALSO CARRYING OUT HIS MISSION

THE ARTIST FIGHTS AGAIN

By H. R. Symes

AS LADY QUENTIN walked toward the waterfront he was not literally singing, but his heart was happy. He was about to do a job. It was a small job but it might very likely lead to better things. And in any case he'd get a small check for it if he did it right, and that was important.

Larry was quite thin and a little pale. His thick black hair hung long at the back of his neck. He carried a sketch pad under his arm and looked very artistic. Some people would have said he looked like a sissy but he didn't look that way by design. He was thin and pale because he hadn't had a square meal in a long time. And he was long because he couldn't afford a haircut.

But he was happy now as he found a park's log cabin near the end of the old dock, sat up it and began looking over the waterfront scene. Far out on the water there were a couple of sailboats, then white sails beautiful against the blue sky and green blue water. Beyond them a long freighter was moving barely moving in seemed at that distance. Looking like a rather ugly toy boat carved out by a not very skillful child.

The shore around the old dock was nearly deserted "Just as well" thought Larry Somerton curious spectators can be very bother some to a sketching artist. There was one man in sight a rather coarse looking fellow in a cap and sweater who stood at the end of the dock looking unneatly out over the expanse of water. "He's not likely to give me any trouble" thought Larry. The stranger man hadn't even noticed the artist.

As Larry held the pad before him and began tentatively sketching he thought of how close he had been to giving up all his artistic ambitions and returning to the rug. Though he didn't look the part now he had, a few months before, been a pretty successful young prize-fighter

But good friends had counselled him to get out of this racket before you got your brains scrambled. He hadn't needed too much urging.

He wasn't a bit of an artist anyway. He had met with failure, disappointment and hunger. Till today. Now he had an assignment from the feature editor of the Globe-Post to do this waterfront sketch. If the editor liked it and the readers liked it, it might lead to a lot more work.

He was becoming intensely over his sketch and when the other man first noticed him was before him. The man frowned. He felt that the artist was staring at him. It made him nervous.

"What you doin'?" His voice was more growl than human

"Drawing" answered Larry keeping his pencil moving.

"What for?"

"It's for the paper" replied Larry pleasantly enough. He was too happy to be angered by this surly inquisitor. He was too happy to tell the man, "It's none of your business!"

The man glowered. His frown seemed to have darkened at the phrase "It's for the paper"

He was walking toward Larry Suddenly and without warning he snatched the sketch pad from the artist's hand ripped it once and, then ripped it again and threw it in the water.

Larry sprang to his feet, speechless, astonished, angered

THE other man swung at him, a big haw like fist in a roundhouse punch. Larry instinctively ducked from the blow so that it merely grazed his cheek The man was yelling "This'll learn yuh. They ain't nobody gonna put my pictures in the paper

Larry drew in with a left to the man's midsection The man swung and the man looked surprised Larry followed with a right to the jaw It jarred the man But it also started Larry's knuckles bleeding. "This guy's got a rock jaw! thought Larry

The man was plowed in with flailing fists. He was bigger than the artist, and stronger Obviously he had been using regularly Larry quick and smart avoided the pile driver thrusts and kept his left jabbing at the ugly face.

And while he fought, his mind kept turning over the question... Who is this man? Why did he tear up the sketch?"

Larry fought on, but he knew he'd have to find an opening soon, get in a haymaker, or be done for. He was weak. His endurance was not great. His strength was shining. He watched for an opening and when it came he put all he had into one punch.

It connected, solid!

The man's cap flew off.

His knees buckled and he sagged down.

Larry stood over his fallen foeman, breathing hard. In the fury of the battle, he hadn't heard the motor launch come up. It was now backing at the side of the dock and a man standing there was taking careful aim at Larry with a blank automatic.

A WAVE slapped the boat against a piling. It thumped. The noise was not great but it roused Larry. He turned, saw the gun and dived toward it just as it spat flame at him. The shot went over his shoulder.

Before the next could fire again Larry had crashed the gun from his hand and grappled him out of the boat and into the water. The man's wrestling muscle, but the cold water seemed to give Larry new strength. His outmaneuvered the other. Held his head under water for struggling seconds then hauled the partly unconscious fellow up on the wooden flooring of the dock.

The other man had come to. While Larry was busy hauling up the gunmen the other was crawling behind him with a blackjack. He raised it "I'll kill this artist!" he thought

But he didn't.

A firm and none too-gentle hand gripped on arm just as the blackjack was to begin its downward course. The policeman had his service pistol out and ready.

I heard a shot! What's going on here?" he asked.

Then getting a good look at Larry Quentin's first assailant, the policemen exclaimed, "Oh ho! So it's you at last? Cobra Grenner an nasty a murdering rat as ever walked on two legs!"

Grenner, who had seemed limp and helpless in the policeman's grip, suddenly uncoiled like the cobra for which he was named. He jerked free and in one motion brought the blackjack down heavily on the policeman's gun wrist, sending the pistol clattering to the boards.

Quick!" the Lazy week thought he was upping into action. He uttered the fervent wish that he might have one Sunday punch left. His fist drove hard against Cobra Grenner's jawbone.

While the man was groggy, the policeman wasted no time slapping the handcuffs on him. He collared the other man as well. While they waited near a call box for the patrol car the policeman said. "What was the nucleus all about?"

"This fellow seems to be an art critic," said Larry. "Without any provocation he walked over and tore up a sketch I was making. The editor world've given me $25 for it to-day." Larry said this last ruefully a little plaintively

Don't worry about the $25 chuckled the cop. "You've made yourself a total profit of $975. There's a thousand-dollar reward out for the Cobra dead or alive."

Larry was speechless with surprise.

"And there may be some reward for his pal, too," continued the policeman "I don't place him, but he looks like the kind of a mugg that only the cops could want Larry finally asked..."Cobra tell me one thing why did you tear up my sketch? You didn't even look at it. Why?

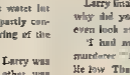
"I had my gun-way planned" growled the murderer "I was goin' away in the boat and He saw The cops wouldn't think of seein' the cops guard to look for me But if my pitcher was in the paper it's goin' drawing they'd know I was down by the waterfront on pal two and two together

"You weren't in the picture," said Larry

"Go on don't hand me that. You was lookin' right at me while you drawed "



SHO" said Larry as if a great light had dawned. "Now I get it One reason I gave up fighting was that I got a punch in the hand that slightly affected my optic nerves I wasn't looking at you. I was looking at and sketching the sailboats. But when I concentrate I'm inclined to have no cross-eyed "
